

THE SILVER STATE

BY THOS. NELSON AND ASSOCIATES.

Entered as second-class matter, December 10, 1910, at the postoffice at Winnemucca, Nevada, under the act of March 3, 1879.
Published Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday at Winnemucca, Humboldt County, Nevada.

ALLEGED DYNAMITERS CAUGHT

In the arrest of the McNamara brothers and McManigal the detectives claim that they have the men responsible for and who participated in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building last fall.

Labor leaders throughout the country express no criticism of the arrest of the men, but claim they were kidnapped in being taken out of the state. Whether this last charge is true or not amounts to little or nothing. All evidence thus far divulged by the officers points to the guilt of the men, and while the methods employed in getting the prisoners out of the state may be open to criticism, they have nothing to fear, if innocent. With the labor unions of the country at their back, with unlimited funds for their defense, they are certain to secure a fair trial, and if innocent, an acquittal.

The crime for which these men were arrested was one of the most dastardly known in the world's criminal annals, and the guilty men must be run down and punished. To this end all fair-minded and law-abiding citizens must lend their aid. Should it prove that the men charged with the crime are the guilty parties, they will receive their merited punishment without sympathy from the legitimate labor organizations of the country.

There is nothing in the constitution and by-laws of any labor union of the country that authorizes or sanctions the perpetration of crime. The fact that a few misguided men connected with unions see fit to conspire to destroy property and sacrifice human life in their mistaken zeal to promote the interests of their crafts, cannot reasonably be charged up to organized labor.

NEVADA LANDS ARE LIKE A MAGNET

Preaching the gospel of hope and with the more material comfort of evidence of present and future prosperity, R. A. McKay, chief clerk in State Engineer Kearney's office, came down from Carson recently with a bundle of statistics that would make Messrs. Chuckwalla, Rattler & Coyote, Inc., take out a life insurance policy.

Never in the history of the state, says Mr. McKay has there been such a scramble to appropriate water and secure prior rights in water for the purposes of irrigation and reclamation. Applications are coming in, especially from Elko, Humboldt and some from White Pine county, at the rate of from six to eight a day. These make the state engineer's force hustle to keep business disposed of.

Assistant Engineer Von Nagel is in the field, holding hearings and making examinations almost continually. The condition is one of the surest indications that Nevada is on the boom from an agricultural point of view. Applicants come from Massachusetts, from Canada, from Utah and a half dozen other places and they are seeking to divert and appropriate water from every available stream, even the most minute watercourse. In many cases where individuals are concerned, water is diverted for a long distance to irrigate a farm as small as 160 acres and every case means another family for Nevada.

Some of these applicants are under the Carey act and others under the water law. To date over 2000 applications have been filed, some of which have been adjudicated and disposed of, but some remain for completion.

The Carey act law makes provision to require those working under it to deposit sufficient money to cover expenses of surveys, inspection etc., and in addition a small sum per acre is required for the land. This goes to the state treasury.

Mr. McKay says that, judging from the applications which are coming in, it will not be long before and tillable or reclamation land is left in Nevada. After that the demand for land will be reflected in increasing prices for the land. In the last ten years land values increased over 15 per cent and in the next ten years the values should increase 200 to 300 per cent.—Reno Journal.
